

WHAT IS STY IN THE EYES?

A sty (also called a sty or hordeolum) is a localized infection in the eyelid that causes a tender, red bump near the edge of the lid. The infection is caused by bacteria and it can occur at the base of an eyelash (external hordeolum) or within one of the small oil glands within the eyelid (internal hordeolum).

CAUSES OF STY IN THE EYES DISORDERS

Eye Sty (Sty) Facts: Symptoms, Causes and Treatment. A sty (also called a sty or hordeolum) is a localized infection in the eyelid that causes a tender, red bump near the edge of the lid. ... Sty typically don't cause vision problems. Sties are caused by staphylococcal bacteria.

SYMPTOMS OF STYE IN THE EYES DISORDERS

- A red lump on your eyelid that is similar to a boil or a pimple.
- Eyelid pain.
- Eyelid swelling.
- Tearing.

NEUROTHERAPY TREATMENT

Virus treatment formula